

ShoreBase Pty Ltd signs major Supply Base contract with ENI in Darwin, Northern Territory.

ShoreBase Pty Ltd announced that they have been awarded a major services contract to provide logistic support for ENI Australia offshore exploration activities. ENI Australia has up to 16 wells planned over the next two year period of the contract from April 2009 using Darwin as its supply base point.

When ENI commences its' drilling in the field it is estimated that up to 3 vessels a week will be loading out of Darwin.

ShoreBase provides comprehensive & seamless services in material handling, warehousing and terrestrial, marine and aviation transport systems through the ShoreLands Group of companies under uniformly applied operating procedures which regulate work activities to ensure, Occupational Health, Safety in the work place, Care for the Environment & Quality is tightly managed.

This significant contract is further reward for the advances that Shorelands Group has made in bringing together the various people skills, procedures, specialized equipment while carefully positioning itself in strategically placed properties under a single management team with corporate policies and procedures designed to satisfy the demands of discerning clients in the oil and gas industry operating in Darwin and the North West of Australia generally.

ShoreBase operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, situated in Hudson Creek and Berrimah, the supply bases are within 10kms of the East Arm Wharf. ShoreBase partners (Shaws' Transport) benefit from the success of this contract with the provision of the road based interstate transport of materials to the Northern Territory.

Arthur Hamilton, Managing Director, of ShoreLands Group of companies discussed the significance of the contract: "We are especially proud of the relationships we have built with the offshore Operators. Our original involvement in 1989 as yard labour contractors blossomed into full Supply base operations in 1999 utilizing a pool of corporately owned equipment, operated by a skilled and highly competent management and operations team. Our success in winning this contract is indicative of our continuing commitment to excellence. We look forward to becoming an integral part of the ENI Australia operations success."

Enquiries:

Andrew Steele

Ph: 08 8922 0944

Mob: 0438 895 132

Email: asteele@shorelandsgroup.com.au